"JOE" CANNON SEES PRESIDENT

BUT NOT, HE SAYS, ON FINANCIAL LEGISLATION.

A Host of Other Visitors Call at Sagamore Hill, but None, No, None, for Anything But a Social Visit-Senator Platt Sure of New York State, Doubtful of City.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 22.-President Roosevelt had many guests at Sagamore Hill to-day, among whom were Senator Platt and Representative Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois. Mr. Cannon was here, it was thought, to talk over with the President plans for proposed financial legislation in the coming extra session of Congress. After his visit to Sagamore Hill, however, he denied that there was anything like a formal conference between the President and himself, and said that financial legislation was talked of only in a general way and in the presence of the other guests.

Senator Platt came to finish up some business with Mr. Roosevelt which was left over from the last visit he made at the White House before the President started on his vacation. The business, the Senater said, was of purely local interest in New York State and couldn't be talked about for publication

The first party of guests for the day arrived at 10 o'clock in the morning. It was composed of the Hon. Morris B. Belknap. Republican nominee for Governor in Kentucky, Edward Lauterbach, W. Cameron Forbes, the old Harvard athlete, and Peter MacQueen, a war correspondent who knew Mr. Roosevelt in Cuba during the Spanish war. Most of these visitors were here simply to pay their respects to the President.

Mr. Belknap came also, he said, to assure the President that everything possible will be done in Kentucky "to give things a turn in the right direction this fall. Mr Lauterbach came, he said, to invite the President to attend the installation late in September of Dr. John H. Farley as president of the College of the City of New York. Most of the visitors in the morning party left town on the noon train.

The President talked for a considerable time with Mr. Forbes, it is said, about the prespects of football and other sports at Harvard next year.

The second party of guests came in on the noon train. In it were Representative Cannon, ex-Senator George Turner of Washington and wife, H. C. Frick, Gov. Yates of Illinois, and Mrs. Yates and the Hon. Charlemagne Tower, United States Ambassador to Germany.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon was dressed like the typical Western politician. He wore an alpaca coat of generous length, a pair of pepper and salt trousers, a slouch straw hat with a fine wide brim, and a flowing white tie, but no waistcoat.

"Well, boys," he said to the reporters, as he clutched at the tails of his alpaca coat, which had become tangled in an Ovster Bay zephyr, "there's nothing in my visit down here. I'm here simply to get something to cat. The President heard I was in New York, and he knew, I guess, that I was hungry, so he invited me down along with Yates and the others." Mr. Cannon began to protest that there would be nothing in the way of a confer-

·nce with the President about financial legislation, when he discovered that the other guests were going away with all the rigs at the station and started on the double quick for Gov. Yates's carriage. The visitors who came on the same train with Mr. Cannon took luncheon with the President. Senator Platt, it was expected, would also lunch at Sagamore Hill, but he didn't arrive there until 3 o'clock, just when most of the other visitors were getting ready to leave.

Mr. Cannon, when he got back from the

"There was no formal conference between the President and myself on the proposeed financial legislation or on any other matters relating to the special session of Congress. The subjects that came up were discussed informally, and no definite conclusions were reached. My visit was

When asked whether it was absolutely certain that the House would consider financial legislation at the extraordinary session in November, Mr. Cannon said that it was not. "That can be determined finally," he said, "only by the House itself." As a result of Mr. Cannon's visit to-day, however, it can be said that the report that he is opposed to any agitation of the financial question at present and will use his influence as Speaker of the House, when elected, to block measures tending in that direction, is not accurate. Mr. Cannon has a very strong opinion as to the advisability langing the currency laws at presen and does not approve of some proposed financial legislation. Personally he has grave doubts whether there is any present necessity for financial legislation, but it is thinks, that conditions may such before the extra session convenes as to make the passage of financial measures necessary. If at that time there are such conditions, and if there is a sound public ntiment in favor of the legislation, he il not stand in the way of the Administration's desire for a change in the currency

Mr. Turner came to pay his respects to the President before sailing for Europe as one of the American members of the joint commission that is to go over the Alaskan boundary dispute. He will sail on Friday. Gov. Yates and Mr. Frick also were here for social purposes, and Mr. Tower came to have a little private talk with Mr. Roose-velt before returning to his post in Ger-pany. It is said that he conveyed to Mr. Emperor William's expression superintendent of city delivery for falsifycommission.

This announcement was made late this afternoon by Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow, who had a conference about 4 o'clock with Mr. Hedges, and a few minutes later issued a statement in regard to his removal, saying:

"Charles Helges was to-day removed from the office of superintendent of city delivery for falsifying his diary and lending his travelling commission. He reported himself at various places on public business when in fact he was not in those places on the dates mentioned, but elsewhere, in some instances hundreds of miles distant. On Oct. 25, 1900, he stated under cath in his diary that he was at Joplin. To the reporters Mr. Heiges said that while at Joplin he received a telegram from his uncle telling of Mr. Sherman's hurried to Chicago and there was joined by his uncle and Senator Hanna, whom he accompanied to Mansfield. When he left Joplin he informed his confidential clerk, W. W. Valentine, in a personal communication, so that it would be known that he was not strictly programme of his trip. Upon his return he put in his monthly statement for per diem travelling expenses and covered into he same the day that he attended the funeral of Sherman. This per diem was paid, and it was not until Valentine gave p his personal correspondence that it was iscovered that He iges was not in Joplin. WON'T WORK WITH MILLER. Union Men Prefer Charges Against Reinstated Employee of Public Printer.

WASHINGTON, July 22 .- It developed tolay by a statement of the case filed with Secretary Cortelyou of the Department of Commerce and Labor and by formal charges filed with Public Printer Palmer that the members of local Union No. 4 of the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders will not work with W. A. Miller, the recently discharged and more recently reinstated assistant foreman of the bindery at the Government Printing Office. Charges affecting the personal character of Mr. Miller were presented to Secretary Cortelyou and the Fublic Printer to-day, supported by affidavits, the purpose of which was to show that he was not a fit man to remain in the public service.

As stated in THE SUN's despatches this morning, the union men have taken the position that no formal charges having been preferred against Miller they regard the action of the President in ordering his reinstatement as he proper one to pursue under the civil service rules. They regret that the Public Printer dismissed Miller without calling for the filing of charges against him, and declare that if an opportunity had been given to present their case Miller's dismissal would have been found to be perfectly regular and for the good of he service.
The efficers of the union and the other

The officers of the union and the other members of the committee represent that up to this time only one side of the case has been submitted to President Roosevelt, who acted merely on representations made by Miller or his friends, and they are confident that when the President reads their statement and considers the affidavits which they have submitted in its support, he will not only acquiesce in, but vits which they have submitted in its sup-port, he will not only acquiesce in, but will insist on Miller's immediate dismissal. Talk of a strike is discouraged by the officers and the leaders of the union, but it omeers and the leaders of the union, but it is perfectly well understood among the members, and, in fact, among all of the employees of the Government Printing Office, all of which belong to some branch of the Allied Trades Council, that the members of Union No. 4 will not work with Miller under any circumstances. Aside the technical grounds upon which he ostensibly expelled from the union, its nembers declare that they will not work with him for personal reasons In the statement submitted to Secretary ortely out to-day by the committee from the local union an explanation is made as to why Miller was first suspended and then dismissed from the union. Among other charges it is alleged that he publicly villified all of the officers of the Bookbinders. Union, "the highest officials of the Government Printing Office" and threatened the men under him with "all that his power and hatred could inflict.

THE LAW FORCED HIS CASTLE.

CAPT." TRELAWNEY ARRESTED AFTER A TWO-DAY SIEGE.

Accused of Making Border Raids on the Banks With Forged Notes-Rubber Stamp Adds a Modern Touch-Has a Fine Place and a Family in Yonkers.

"Capt." Charles H. Trelawney, who says he is well connected in Wales, was arrested last night in his home in Ridge Drive, Lowerre Park, Yonkers, by Detective Sergeant Woolridge of this city and four Pinkerton detectives under Assistant Superintendent Norman T. Bailey. Trelawney is charged with forgery, and for two days had been a prisoner in his house. Pinkerton men have surrounded the house during that time for fear that he might escape. His arrest was accomplished after the detectives had smashed a window in the basement and by breaking open locked doors made their way to his den on the top floor, where, behind a barricade of turniture, he was destroying his private papers. He was brought to this city and locked up at Police Headquarters.

The complainant against Trelawney is Simon Shoninger, a piano manufacturer of New Haven. Shoninger alleges that on April 24 Trelawney forged his name to a three-months' note for $1,251, deposited the note in the Mercantile National Bank in this city, and drew out the entire amount within a few days. On July 15 the note was sent to Shoninger's bank, the National Tradesmen's of New Haven, for collection. There it was pronounced

Trelawney told the police last night that another man drew the Shoninger note and that he had no hand in the forgery. TWAS E. R. THOMAS'S ALTO

In Which Mrs. Hawtey Was Killed-Its Owner's Accident Record. The automobile in which Mrs. Adelaide Hawley of New Milford, Pa., was killed in Brooklyn on Tuesday night was the $17,000 machine belonging to Edward R. Thomas, the millionaire banker and racehorse owner, which he purchased after he sold the "White Ghost" to Mr. Drake. On Feb. 12, 1902, Mr. Thomas, while driving the latter automobile, ran down and killed seven-year-old Henry Thies in Convent avenue. The ac-laws were passed regulating the speed of automobiles in the city streets. Three months after the accident, while Hawley was driving the machine through that part of East Forty-fourth street known as Corcoran's Roost, Mr. Thomas and his wife were attacked by a gang of boys, Mrs. Thomas being struck on the head by some missile and rendered unconscious Seon after this accident Mr. Thomas sold the hoodoo machine. Edward E. Hawley of 393-A Twelfth street, Brooklyn, has been Mr. Thomas's driver since he took to automobiling a few years ago. Hawley spent most of the day Tuesday overhauling the big machine which has a guaranteed speed of a mile a minute when extended it was Mr. Thomas's intention to take part in the races at the Empire City track with the machine on Saturday. On Tuesday evening Hawley had Mrs. Elberts beside him on the front seat, and his mother, his sixteen-year-old daughter and Glen Morris, 13 years old, the son of a neighbor, were in the rear. tarted home from Coney Island vard. As he approached the built-up section of the borough, Hawley slowed down to about twenty miles an hour.

The accident occurred when Hawley was swinging the machine into Fort Hamil ton avenue from the Ocean Boulevard. To avoid running into a horse attached to a runabout at that point, he made a wide curve, carrying the machine toward the curb. Mrs. Elberts, as Eawley explains, in apprehension of a collision, sud-denly jumped out, and in trying to restrain her from doing so be had to remove one of his hands from the stearing year. He lost control of the machine and it dashed Hawley was not aware at this time that his mother had been injured, and had run back to pick up Mrs. Elberts when a police-man discovered Mrs. Hawley dead in the machine. She had been thrown over the back of the front seat, her head striking the dashboard or a part of the machinery.

the dashboard or a part of the machinery. The frontal bone was crushed in, and death was almost instantaneous.

It was at first supposed that Mrs. Elterts was also mortally injured, but at the Kings. County Hospital it was found that she was suffering from concussion of the brain and some severe bruises on the face. She recovered consciousness early yesterday morning and the dectors, expressed condence in her recovery. The two young cople in the automobile escaped with a w bruises. The only injury to the machine was to front wheel which first struck the curb The inquest in the case of Mrs. Lawley has been adjourned by Coroner Flaherty until next week.

A charge of speeding in Amsterdam avenue recently is pending against Hawley. HORSE FRIGHTENED BY AUTO. Mr. and Mrs. George P. Lies of This City had used it from childhood it seemed as though nothing could take its place. I had settled down to stay at the farm when one day I got to thinking over the situation and concluded to try an experiment. I got a package of Postum Coffee. It was not cooked right the next morning and we were all disappointed. That was because we had tried to make it like coffee. Next morning I had Postum made according to directions and we were all delighted. In a few days you should have seen the change in Mother. Since that time we have never drank coffee and now we all drink Postum twice a day and some times three times and think it superior
